NEWS AND COMMENTS.

CZAR REED will be a small potato in the next House, which will stand nearly three to one Democratic.

THE Greenville Reflector says that the counties of Pitt, Edgecombe and Greene have raised more corn than their people can possibly use. Good for Pitt, Edgecombe and Greene.

"THE Herald says Congress will reassemble in about three weeks." What for—to pass the force bill, or hold an inquest over the dead members of the Republican party who are now resting under the shade of a crushing defeat?

WALKER, former Superintendent of the Census for 1870, boldly challenges the accuracy of Mr. PORTER'S count for 1890; and, while admitting the faulty character of the work twenty years ago, shows conclusively that the total of 62,458,362 is far below the present actual population.

HERE are some questions American girls all along the line ask regarding their beau: Boston girl—where was he educated? New York girl—is he rich? Philadelphia girl—who are his family? Baltimore girl—is he handsome? Southern girl, from St. Augustine to Richmond on the James—does he love me?

ANTERIOR to the election, before the first gun sounded on the skirmish line of the recent campaign, before our feet touched the waters of Jordan, the OBSERVER said: "We are neither 'prophets nor sons of prophets,' but mark us: The McKinley bill is to do a great part in effecting a change of from 40 to 50 in the complexion of the next House of Representatives in Congress, giving us a majority." Somewhat prophetic, though, was it not?

"THERE is retribution in history." Surely there is no peace for McKINLEY, no rest for the sole of his foot. Added to his crushing defeat, are the reproaches of his demoralized party, who clamor about him, upbraiding him, the father of the tariff bill, as the author of all their woes, and crying "I told you so!" Unfortunately, he cannot exclaim inreply: "Shake not thy gory locks at me; thou canst not say I did it!" The worst of it is, he did "do it"—with a vengeance.

THE South's wonderful activity and progress continues to spread, the Wall street excitement last week and the oppression of the McKinley tariff bill, to the contrary notwithstanding. As the Manufacturers' Record wisely says, "under any circumstances the South is in a better position to stand even a panic than any other section. It has gathered big crops that will aggregate in value for the year nearly $1,000,000,000, its cotton alone, including the seed, counting up this year between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000, every dollar of which it will draw largely from the North and Europe." Yes, the South is marching steadily along, almost heedless of the fluctuations on Wall street.

"THE range and penetrating power of modern rifles are tremendous. The six-inch rifle will hurl its projectile through ten and a half inches of wrought iron a thousand yards from the muzzle. The eight-inch rifle will pierce sixteen and three-tenths inches of iron at the same distance. The ten inch rifle that the rejuvenated "Miantonumoh" will carry will send its missile through twenty-one inches of iron a thousand yards away. The twelve-inch rifle, of which we are to have a supply in the future, will penetrate twenty-eight inches of iron at a range of three thousand feet." You will very greatly oblige, very truly yours, by keeping the muzzle "pinting" in yonder direction, then, please.

THAT WAS a most beautiful tribute paid the "Noble Old Roman" at the banquet in Columbus, Ohio, on the anniversary of his 77th birthday by Ex-President CLEVELAND, as well as a strong point well-made for Democracy, when he said: "Nothing could so well accompany the honors we pay our distinguished guest as the celebration on his birthday of the victory which has just been achieved in vindication of American citizenship—for in him we honor the man who has best illustrated true American manhood. Our rejoicing and his are increased, as we also celebrate tonight the triumph of a Democratic principle for which he fought and fell but two short years ago; and to complete our joy and his we are permitted to indulge in true Democratic enthusiasm over the steadfastness and devotion to its creed exhibited by our party, which, knowing no discouragement, has fought to victory in the people's cause. * * This is a time when faith in our countrymen should be fully re-established. The noise of a recent political revolution is still heard throughout the land; the people have just demonstrated that there is a point beyond which they cannot be led by blind partisanship, and that they are quite competent to examine and correctly decide political questions concerning their rights and their welfare. They have unmercifully resented every attack upon true American manhood, and have taught party leaders that, though slow to anger, they take terrible revenges when betrayed. They permit us to forgive our honored guest for all the cheap coats he has ever worn, for they have declared them to be in fashion. They have also decreed that the Decalogue has a place in our politics, for they have enforced the command 'Thou shalt not steal,' and have rendered an emphatic verdict against those who have borne false witness." With genuine American citizenship to illumine the old ship of Democracy, we now set sail for the White House, and there we will land in 1892.

OUR INSANE ASYLUMS.

An Important Convention Concerning Them and the Better Care of our Insane.—More Room Needed.

RALEIGH, Nov. 13.—At last May's meeting of the State Medical Society a resolution was adopted looking to the better care of the insane. Pursuant to this a convention was held here this afternoon of a most important character. It was attended by Dr. W. R. Wood, Superintendent, and R. H. Smith and Octavius Coke, Directors of the asylum at Raleigh; Dr. P. L. Murphy, Superintendent, and J. P. Caldwell, Director, of the Morganton asylum; Dr. J. F. Miller, Superintendent of the Goldsboro asylum; Drs. J. A. Hodges and Jas. Baker, representing the State Board of Health, and Dr. J. M. Hayes, of the State Medical Society. Dr. E. Burke Haywood, President of the State Board of Charities, and Dr. Francis Duffy, of New Berne, sat with the convention. Dr Hodges was made President and Dr. Hayes, Secretary. There was a full discussion, in the course of which it was shown that all the asylums are full and that more room is urgently needed. A resolution was adopted that the Legislature be asked to make an appropriation for the enlargement of the three asylums, so that the insane now in jails and poor-houses can be properly treated.

It was asked that the name of the Western Insane Asylum at Morganton be changed to the State Hospital, and that certain wards therein, which cannot be used for insane patients, be set apart for the treatment of inebriates under proper restrictions, the number not to exceed twelve of each sex—these to pay such charges as may be fixed by the directors, save when indigent:—this to be done not for profit, but in order that the class referred to may not become a burden on the State. Dr. Baker and J. P. Caldwell were instructed to collect statistics of inebriety, idiocy and imbecility in the State, and also of the asylums. It was further decided to ask the Legislature to so amend the Code that the criminal insane may not have precedence of the innocent insane as to admission to the asylums. A committee, of which Octavius Coke is chairman, was appointed to lay all these vitally important matters before the Legislature, and to ask for a special appropriation for the enlargement of the asylums.

From the Ballroom to the Mines.

The Veritzins were nobles of enormous wealth and power. Paul held a high office in court. One night, glittering with jewels and orders, the young Prince, who was one of the handsomest men in Russia, danced in a quadrille opposite the Empress. As she passed him in the dance, she fancied that his eyes scanned her gross figure with covert amusement. After the quadrille she beckoned to him, and with a smile handed him her tiny ivory tablets, containing seven pages, one for each day in the week.

On the first was written: "The imperial ballroom, St. Petersburg." On the last: "The mines, Siberia." He read it; his face grew gray as that of a corpse; he bowed low, kissed her hand and withdrew; "taking," says the old chronicle, "his wife, the beautiful Princess Ivanovna, with him." He was heard to say, as he left the ballroom: "My minutes are numbered; let us not lose one." Flight or resistance was impossible. The hold of Catherine on her victims was as inexorable as death. Prince Veritzin was forced to remain passive in his palace, while each day the power, the wealth and the happiness that life had given him were stripped from him.

First he was degraded from all his offices at court; next, his estates were confiscated by the Crown; his friends were forbidden to hold any communication with him; his very name, one of the noblest in Russia, was taken from him, and he was given that of a serf. Then his wife and children were driven out of the palace to herd with beggars. "On the last day," says the record, "Paul Veritzin, in rags and barefoot, chained to a convict, bade an eternal farewell to his home, and departed to the dark and icy North. He was seen of men no more."

Cost of Educating a Nation.

Louisville Courier-Journal.]

Underlying all other public questions, pressing, presistent, commanding, is the subject of education. Important in every civilized nation, it is in America of paramount interest. In America we have 12,000,000 children enrolled in the public schools alone; how to increase attendance, how to lower absenteeism, how to waste no money, no energy, no time, but to make every effort tell; what methods are best; what studies are essential; what influences are to be stimulated; how to reach the hearts, the minds, the consciences of these children; what ideals to put before them—these are matters of most profound concern.

Our public schools require 347,292 teachers, and cost annually $125,455,252—or did two years ago. These figures simply show the magnitude of the system, and are staggering even to the imagination, but it is to be remembered that the United States pension list calls for more money than the schools receive. The future of the Republic is committed to these 12,000,000 children, and to the hundreds of thousands in private and sectarian schools, to these and not to one or the other of the political parties, to these and not to any church, not to any organization whatever.

And so Cornwallis Lost Only One Man.

During the Revolutionary War in America two soldiers of the army of Lord Cornwallis went into a house, and treated the inmates in a shameful manner. A third soldier met them coming out, and recognized them. He was in no way to blame; but, since he declined to give up the names of his comrades, he was sentenced to the punishment they had incurred. Lord Cornwallis rode up to him when on the gallows. "Campbell," he said, "what a fool you are to die thus! Give up their names!" "You are in an enemy's country, my Lord," was the firm reply, "and you can better spare one man than two." And he was hanged.

"Only."

From "only one word" many quarrels begin,
And "only this once" leads to many a sin;
"Only a penny" wastes many a pound,
"Only once more" and the diver was drowned;
"Only one drop" many drunkards hath made,
"Only one play" many gamblers hath said;
"Only a cold" opens many a grave,
"Only resist" many evils will save.

AN ENGLISH CITY IN CHILI.

Valparaiso Almost Entirely in the Possession of Anglo-Saxons.

Valparaiso, the port of Santiago, and the principal port of the Republic, is quite an English city, says Harper's Magazine. "The Chilians will not be pleased to read that statement," suggested a friend at my elbow. "Can it be denied?" I ask. "Is not the whole aspect of the place English? Is not the bay full of English ships? Do you not hear English spoken everywhere as soon as you get ashore? Do not the public houses bear the familiar old signboards of the 'Royal Oak,' the 'Queen's Arm,' the 'Red Lion,' 'All the World's Corner'? Here is the suave English chemist, whose speech is so precise; the English booksellers, three or four of them with fine shops; the English doctors by the dozen; English grocers, who sell bacon and pickles, and style themselves 'Italian warehousemen', according to the classical tradition of their guild; English shopkeepers of all kinds; English hotels, and, of course, an English newspaper.

"What are all those tall and slender girls, with blonde hair, queer hats, loosely fitting dresses, a rather ungraceful although athletic walk, an incomparably fine quality of rose-and-white flesh, such as Reynolds—Sir Joshua, I should say—loved to paint, are they not unmistakably English girls? Up there on the hill, do I not spy an English church? All these business blocks, house after house, are not the firms English, with an intermixture of German? If you take away the English firms from Valparaiso, what remains?" "True," replied my friend. "It is quite true." "I will even go further, and ask what is left of Chili if you take the foreigners away, particularly the English and the Germans?"

"Good gracious! I hope you are not going to put these fearful ideas into print. You alarm me." "What will you?" I replied. "A stranger visiting Chili for the first time, and imagining vaguely that it is some far-away and delightful Paal and Virginia country—as it truly is—a country of great wealth and beauty, vast in extent, varied in aspect, and still full of the energy and chivalry of the conquistadores, is surprised to find that the descendants of the conquistadores are very few in number relatively to the extent of their territory and the age of their settlement. He is struck, above all things, by the prominence and ubiquity of foreigners in the practical management and organization of the great business enterprises, and even of the great private fortunes of the land."

Has Our Jurisprudence Moved During Our Day and Generation?

Hon. John S. H. Frink.]

I think there is a dispositiou among us to believe that the bar in our day has intellectually degenerated; that its members do not compare in legal erudition and forensic ability with the great luminaries of the early years of the century. It is the opportunity—perhaps rather than the opportune necessity—that makes the lawyer no less than the soldier and statesman.

Appeals are less frequently made to the sympathies and passions of the jurors, but oftener to their judgment and understanding. At no more remote period than my student days, I have, on more than one occasion, seen a gentleman, distinguished for his eloquence alike in this country and my own, arise with great dignity, button his artistic coat of "blue and gold" around his erect and elegant form, and after his obeisance to court and jury, turn around and address the assembly in the court-room, ignoring for long periods the very presence of the judge and panel. This he invariably did when the case presented any political aspect. Such procedure then passed almost without comment, certainly without rebuke. To-day, even that most placid of nisi prius judges, Lewis W. Clark, might interrupt him; Judge Allen would be likely to interject a word or two of his own; and the Chief Justice would probably commit him for contempt; and all would concur in setting the verdict aside. The court does not encourage forensic display. The advocate of these times, who would enforce or adorn his argument by apt illustration or pertinent anecdote, must be very skillful and fortunate, or he will endanger his verdict. Undoubtedly there has been a leveling up of our profession within the past forty years.

The Class of People out of Employment.

I once heard a gentleman of experience, says a writer in the Office, give expression to his views concerning those who are out of employment in about the following terms:

"I seldom find anybody out of work except those who are looking for something that they are incompetent to perform. A man who is able to adapt himself to circumstances and takes any job which offers is never out of employment, and it is only for a short time at most that he is obliged to do anything that is really beneath his ability. As soon as he demonstrates to his employer his fitness for a higher position, he is sure to be promoted. Those who aspire to something above their ability, however, are very numerous. Many of these are actually ignorant of the fact that they are unqualified for the kind of work they are seeking. It would be mercy to many such men if some one would tell them kindly that their search is in vain, because other men are better qualified to perform the duty they aspire to than themselves, and will therefore be preferred. There is many a man who would make an excellent porter that fritters away his life as a lame excuse for a bookkeeper."

Carrying Mails in Egypt.

Miss Edwards, "A Thousand Miles Up the Nile."]

From the point where the railroad ends, the Egyptian and Nubian mails are carried by runners, stationed at distances of four miles all along the route. Each man runs his four miles, and at the end thereof finds the next man ready to snatch up his bag, and start off at full speed immediately. The next man transfers it in a like manner to the next; and so it goes, by day and night, without a break, till it reaches the first railroad station. Each runner is supposed to do his four miles in half an hour, and the mail which goes out every morning from Luxor reaches Cairo in six days. Considering that Cairo was 450 miles away; that 200 miles of this distance had to be done on foot, and that the trains went only once a day, we thought this a very creditable rate of speed.

Height of Clouds.

Scientific American.]

Prof. Moller, of Carlsruhe, has made some interesting observations on clouds. The highest clouds, cirrus and cirrostratus, rise on an average to a height of nearly 30,000 feet. The middle clouds keep at from about 10,000 to 23,000 feet in height, while the lower clouds reach to between 3,000 and 7,000 feet. The cumulus clouds float with their lower surface at a height of from 4,000 to 5,000 feet, while their summits rise to 16,000 feet. The tops of the Alps are often hidden by clouds of the third class, but the bottom of the clouds of the second class, and especially of the thunder clouds, often enfold them. The vertical dimensions of a cloud observed by Prof. Moller on the Netelberg were over 1,200 feet; he stepped out of it at a height of about 3,700 feet, and high above the mountain floated clouds of the middle class, while veils of mist lay in the ravines and clefts. The upper clouds were growing thicker, while the lower ones were dissolving, and soon it began to rain and snow.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

THURSDAY.....NOVEMBER 20, 1890.

A WORD TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT.

Every "sweet has its bitter," and every "rose its thorn."

The grand victory just won by the Democrats, the magnitude of which no one ever anticipated for a moment, entails upon the party additional responsibilities, both State and national. Should we fail to take due cognizance of this fact, the results may be disastrous to the cause of tariff reform, and the work of the last election reversed in the short period intervening between now and the next Presidential election. Upon its stewardship for the next two years the party must, to a greater or less extent, rely upon the endorsement of the people in '92. The masses are aroused. The campaign of education is keeping step to the tune of every passing breeze. We are thinking for ourselves and have firmly resolved to redress the wrongs practiced upon us by the Republicans, and the evils upon which we, as a people, have been groaning so loud. While the recent victory was a Democratic victory, in every sense of the word, it was, nevertheless, a tariff reform victory; and tariff reform the people are determined to have at all events. It is a consummation then, most devoutly to be wished for, that due cognizance will be taken of the situation by the newly elected members of Congress.

While the next Congress will be powerless—with a Republican President and U. S. Senate—to in any way amend the present oppressive laws, enacted by the Republican party, and for which the Republican party is alone responsible, or to even pass laws that would give the people relief from the burdens under which they are crying aloud; yet upon the record of the 52nd Congress hinges the destiny of the Democratic party in '92. With the exercise of wisdom and care in its deliberations the 52nd Congress, however, can make a record upon which to appeal to the country in '92, and the demonstration of a proper regard for the rights of the people, there need be no fears entertained that the Democratic party will not be granted another four year lease of power. This, we think, is certainly one essential view to take of the situation, for as Gen. Ewing in his speech at Columbus, Ohio, but a few days since so eloquently said, "The Democratic party was formed by and for the people. It believes in their ability and divine right to rule. It is not a seeker of political nostrums, but is not afraid to combat new evils by use of legitimate powers of government. The issues and prejudices which grew out of the war have long blinded the people to the infidelity of the Republican party to their interests. But happily," as he further says, "the awakening has come at last; and from every quarter of the heavens we yet hear the reverberations of that thunder which, on the 4th day of November, rolled from the White Mountains to the Sierras. It was the rebuke of the Republican party for its recklessness and folly; for its repudiation of a quarter of a century of promises to reduce the war tariff; for its barbaric rudeness in trampling on the rights of the minority and the immemorial usages of the House of Representatives, and for its already half-executed design to again organize a political hell in the South. It is the peoples' answer to Tom Reed's threat that the Republican party would do the voting, counting and returning. It is their answer to Mr. McKinley's denunciation of the demand for cheap goods. It is their rebuke of the spoilsmen who buy seats in Cabinets and forget that there is a God in Israel. It is the answer to Mr. Blaine's assertion at South Bend that the people want more protection." Yea, a verdict that the "way-faring, man though a fool, need not err therein."

THE CUMBERLAND FAIR.

At the exclusion of a great deal of other matter—local and otherwise—we are enabled to give the public this week the premiums awarded by the Cumberland County Agricultural & Mechanical Society, this year, which however, we know to be a matter of great concern to our readers. Hence the precedence we give the premium list.

Despite the fact that the rain poured down almost in torrents nearly every day, and an accident to the principal excursion trains, the gate receipts were a little above the average; while the fair otherwise was a grand success in every particular, and the authorities have every reason to feel gratified over the results.

ONE WEEK'S RECORD.

Work tells. The past week was indeed a "field day" for THE OBSERVER, during which time we succeeded in adding 55 new readers to our subscription books. A pretty fair start, this, and we are determined to keep the ball in motion.

Mr. Hector McGeachey, of Robeson, has accepted a position with Mr. A. S. Huske, where he will be pleased to see his friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Douglas Haigh has accepted a position with The People's National Bank, as teller.

THE CAPE FEAR METROPOLIS AS A COTTON MARKET.

In the early autumn THE OBSERVER made the statement that Fayetteville should and we hoped would, sell twenty-five thousand bales of cotton this season. In view of the fact that, already within the short space of a fraction over three months we have sold over twelve thousand bales, we are encouraged to indulge the hope that even our most sanguine expectations are destined to be realized. And why not? With our superior transportation facilities to all parts of the world, combined with cheap freight rates—by water and by rail—and facilities for handling and the growing demands upon our buyers, there is no reason why we should even be satisfied with selling only twenty-five thousand bales. Indeed, with all the natural advantages to which Fayetteville, as a cotton market, can justly lay claim, we should not be content with any thing short of fifty to one hundred thousand bales annually.

The sale of fifty thousand bales of cotton in Fayetteville means the distribution of no less than $2,500,000 every year, the major part of which circulates chiefly among the producers in the territory mostly contiguous to Fayetteville, the tendency of which would not only be to enrich the planter but the manufacturer, merchant, mechanic as well as all classes of labor, as the up-building and advancement of the interests of one class directly or indirectly tends to the promotion of kindred interests.

For the speedy realization of such an increase in the volume of our commercial affairs our people should move as one man. As in everything else, THE OBSERVER can be relied upon to do its part. To begin with, we have never lost an opportunity to lay before and convince the public of the many advantages Fayetteville possesses over other inland towns as a cotton centre, and are glad to know that not a few have thus been influenced; brought their cotton hither, realizing such prices as induced them to return, and in many instances accompanied by others.

Thus far the receipts have reached about 12,395 bales, against 4,202 bales this time last year, with the ruling price generally from one fourth to five eighths of a cent per pound more on the Fayetteville market than any other inland town. Quotation for middling closed yesterday as follows: Wilmington, 9; Raleigh, 8¾; Goldsboro, 8¾ cents; Fayetteville, 9 cents.

Gov. Fowle's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

State of North Carolina:

Since the independence of the American colonies was secured there has been no period of our history as a State in which Divine Providence has blessed us with more abundant returns for labor or indicated more clearly His purpose to preserve our civil and political liberties.

Now, therefore, that public acknowledgment of our gratitude to Almighty God, for His great goodness to us as a State and people, may be made,

I, Daniel G. Fowle, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 27th day of November, 1890, as a day of public Thanksgiving and praise, and I earnestly recommend that the people of the State assemble on that day at their usual places of worship and return thanks for the great prosperity which has been vouchsafed to us and for the innumerable blessings which we enjoy.

And that every heart may be gladdened, let us remember the widow and the orphan, the disabled soldier, the poor and the afflicted, whom He hath made dependent upon our care, and contribute liberally of our means to the institutions which have been organized in our midst for their maintenance.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the State of North Carolina, at the city of Raleigh, this 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety, and in the one hundred and fifteenth year of our American independence.

DANIEL G. FOWLE.

By the Governor:
S. F. TELFAIR,
Private Secretary.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Athenæum Club.

The regular meeting of the Athenæum Club, (public) will take place in Pythian Hall, next Tuesday evening—Essayists: Archie McDuffie, A. H. Slocomb; Elocutionists, J. H. Myrover, D. Rose. Seats free.

Church Officers.

At a congregational meeting of the members of the Presbyterian church here last Sunday, Messrs. W. P. Fife and W. L. Hawley were elected elders, and Mr. Randall McMillan, a deacon. The former were duly installed last night, and the latter will be installed next Sunday.

Police for Campbellton.

We inadvertantly omitted to say in our last issue that the Board of town commissioners at their last meeting had confirmed the appointment of Mr. L. A. Nixon, a police officer in and for Campbellton. Mr. Nixon is of course clothed with all the powers vested in a police officer for making arrests, when and wherever the occasion requires., otc.

Attention, Please.

Your attention is directed this week especially to the following new advertisements:

TRINITY COLLEGE.
ROSE & LEAK—Shoes.
FAYETTEVILLE SKATING RINK.
J. M. MONGER—Sanford Hotel.
SUTTON & COOK—Mortgagee's Sale.
THE RACKET STORE—A Sad Accident.
FRANK THORNTON—Cloaks and Wraps.
PROF. J. G. MILLER—Instruction in Music.
W. J. MCDONALD—37 Job Lots of Tobacco.

Skating Rink.

Mr. C. L. Campbell proves himself a maestro in all the forms of amusement for the young folks. He has just established a skating rink at Farmers' Hall, with a good band, and gives not only fine entertainment but special instruction in the art of skating. We are glad to see the rink brought into practice again. It is good, healthful exercise, when not indulged in too often—say about once a week.

Fayetteville Choral Association.

The adjourned meeting of the Fayetteville Choral Association will take place in Brandt's Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. The officers-elect are Capt N. W. Ray, President; Mr. E. J. Lilly, vice President; Prof. G. W. Scott, Corresponding Secretary; Mr. W. B. LaFar, Treasurer; Capt. N. W. Ray, Mr. E. J. Lilly, Prof. G. W. Scott, and Messrs. H. R. Novitzky and J. H. Myrover, Directors. The Directors will submit to the Association a form of constitution and by-laws for its acceptance at the meeting to-night.

Thanksgiving Exercises.

It is almost needless for us to urge upon our people, who have been so bountifully blessed in many respects, to heed the invocation of the President of the United States and the Chief Magistrate of our own grand old Commonwealth, to devote at least one day in the year of 1890 to returning thanks to an alwise Providence for the manifold blessings He has seen fit to bestow upon us as a people. Let us lay aside the cares and responsibilities of our every day business life, and assemble at the usual places of worship on the 27th inst., and there render thanks to Him who doeth all things well.

By an arrangement with the ministers of Fayetteville, the thanksgiving services will be held this year in the Presbyterian church and conducted by Rev. C. W. Byrd of the Hay Street M. E. Church. Everybody should attend.

Evangelist Fife at Mooresville.

Evangelist Fife returned from Mooresville Tuesday, where he has just closed another very successful meeting. He reports about 600 professions and reclamations, with 203 applications for church membership, as follows: Presbyterian, 106; Methodist, 74; Baptist, 13; Associated Reform Presbyterian, 10.

On Sunday morning and night the crowd was so large that the sides of the Tabernacle had to be knocked out, in order that the people might hear the Evangelist. Between twelve and fifteen hundred men promised to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors, and about four hundred men and women promised to dance no more. Mr. Fife also made an appeal to the Presbyterian part of the congregation for funds with which to erect at that place a Presbyterian parsonage, and succeeded in raising $2,000, Methodists and Baptists kindly contributing.

Evangelist Fife was duly installed an Elder in the Presbyterian church here last night, and leaves to-morrow for Louisburg, whither he goes to conduct a ten days meeting.

How well the people of Mooresville appreciated his wonderful work in that town can be estimated in one light by the fact that, at the close of the meeting Mr. Fife was presented with a purse of $750,00.

CUMBERLAND FAIR.

An Excellent Exhibition—The Crowd Fair, Considering The Weather—The Articles Remarkably Fine in Quality—The entries, in Number a Little Over the Average.

The exhibition opened on Wednesday, 12th inst., with rather threatening weather, which, by Thursday, became a regular down-pour—undoubtedly keeping back many from a distance who would otherwise have attended the fair. In fact, the entries in the different deparments and the interest manifested in the exhibition from all points make it certain that, had the weather been favorable, this year's fair would have been one of the best in the history of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society, in point of numbers, as it certainly stands the very best as an exhibition of agricultural products, industrial skill and domestic handiwork. The reporter is limited in the space which he can allot to articles especially meritorious, but he gives those deserving of more than a passing mention, as follows:

FARMERS' HALL.

W. D. Smith, 72 entries, of which we make mention of the most prominent, as follows: (baled) fodder, (baled) hay, crab grass (baled) pea hay (baled), prolific corn (in bushel and sample), strawberry, yellow and kaffir corn, (in bushel and sample) dent and white corn meal, Livingston's beauty tomatoes; parsnips, carrots, grass seed black bunch peas, wild goose peas, red ripper six weeks peas, Irish potatoes, (on vines—remarkably fine), bell peppers, bull-nose peppers, green tomatoes, yam and Jersey sweet potatoes (the exhibit of Mr. W. Drewry Smith, in excellence and number of entries, certainly excelled any other in that department; and, in our judgment has rarely been surpassed at any previous exhibition); Mr. H. P. Davis, exhibit of Alliance cotton, 5 locks to the boll, 16 bolls being displayed together weighing 1½ lbs. (this cotton would almost equal the Sea-Island in the length of staple, and we have been informed that it makes up especially well in manufacturing); J. C. Jackson, a yam potato weighing 13 lbs.; W. B. Draughon, very fine rice pea; H. P. Davis, mammoth pumpkin, (not only very large, but of excellent variety); W. H. H. Wade, fine pumpkins; Joseph McNeill, (colored) Laurinburg, bread-trays and scrubbing-broom of his own make (very creditable—deserves premium); J. T. McCorquodale, Westville, Harnett county; Globe turnips (Mr. McCorquodale sold $100 worth of turnips from one acre, besides feeding 40 or 50 head of stock); G. W. Lawrence, fine turnips; M. C. Campbell, improved corn (this specimen of corn is very fine); J. B. Butler, upland rice (very good); Chas. Lamb pea-nuts; Frank Davis, meal; J. S. Breece, tomatoes and ruta-baga turnips; Wiley Godwin, yams; S. B. Talbot, fine potatoes and turnips; Alex. McNeill, very fine potatoes; F. Davis, baled fodder and shucks, with corn, peas and beans; G. L. Breece, stock corn; H. McRae, 31 articles, among others, sample Bailey cotton and cotton seed; Joseph Breece (aged 12 years), roasting-ear corn; Henry Collins, Bahama potatoes; Holt & Homewood, Alamance county, 64 entries (these gentlemen have always been among the most valued contributors to the fair, and their display is this year one of the best they have ever made); W. B. Draughon, mammoth gourd, holding 9 gallons; W. B. Draughon, hams 2 years and 3 years old (very fine); W. B. Draughon, corn 9 years old, has been exhibited for 6 successive fairs.

Mr. T. O. Whaley, very excellent single and double sets of harness (this is remarkably fine work and reflects much credit on Mr. Whaley).

FLORAL HALL.

Here the reporter was confronted by an "embarrassment of riches" which made it very difficult for him to "pick and choose;" for, while in the number of entries this department fell behind the record of some previous years, the quality of the display was incomparable in taste, finish and beauty.

CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

To the exhibit of the Hope Mills Manufacturing Company was assigned the prominent space just within the entrance of the main building, and for the tasteful and ingenuous arrangement of the different fabrics, the Society was indebted to Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. Gadsby and Mr. Cotton. The display took the form of a tent or pavilion, the different sides being made up of cheviots, Oxford dress ginghams, shirting, "article 47," Hope cottonades. Within the tent the different processes of cotton manufacture were beautifully displayed: cotton laps, slivery drawing cards, slubbing and fly-frame work, spinning-frame work, spoolers, twisters and warping, the dyeing process and weaving into the fabric from the cotton bale, 168 different styles of cotton manufacture, including many kinds of dress fabric and various styles of gentlemen's wear. When we add that all this material was grouped together and combined in the most artistic style and in faultless taste, it is no wonder that it excited universal admiration. But with the combined efforts of Messrs. Gadsby and Cotton and their accomplished wives, the exhibit could hardly be otherwise than attractive and meritorious.

FANCY NEEDLE-WORK AND EMBROIDERY.

Miss Mary E. Johnson made an artistic exhibit, consisting of a lady's hat of woven corn-shucks presenting the appearance of plaited Leghorn straw, embellished with artificial flowers fashioned by Miss Johnson of white and colored paper; a set of table mats of the common wire grass growing on our pine barrens; a picture frame of the pine-bur; a bracket of paper for holding letters—the whole displaying remarkable ingenuity and skill. Miss Johnson is entirely self-taught, never having had the advantage of guidance or instruction, and evinces a high degree of inventive talent.

Mrs. N. A. Sinclair, a fine display of C., fish-scale work, hair-work, silk quilt, embroidered table scarf (very beautiful). Mrs. Graddy was a very valued contributor, having entered, altogether, 34 articles, all meritorious.

Mrs. John E. Elliot, lovely feather-edge crochet and silk embroidery.

Miss Lillie Slocomb, aged only 10 years, crazy-work sofa cushion—a remarkably creditable piece of work, in which she had no assistance whatever.

Miss Alice Campbell, beautiful French embroidery; set of doilies, very tasteful (outline work).

Mrs. R. T. Covington, Red Springs, handsome linen embroidery.

Miss Alice Woodward, beautiful hand-made apron.

Mrs. W. K. McDiarmid, embroidered skirt (an exquisite piece of work).

Mrs. H. L. Cook, bureau scarf.

Mrs. D. McK. Graddy, Little Rock, S. lace and embroidered lettering.

Mrs. W. B. LaFar, very artistic work in outline pillow shams.

Mrs. John Worth, hand-made rug.

Miss Sarah Whitfield, calico quilt.

Miss. Maggie Ellison, crocheted sacque.

Mrs. W. F. Holmes, calico quilts.

Miss Maggie Pemberton, infant's wrapper.

Mrs. H. McD. Robinson, beautifully worked afghan.

Miss Minnie Johnson, infant's embridered dress.

Mrs. W. B. Draughon, hand-made skirt, thread lace knitting.

Mrs. W. G. Hall, silk embroidery.

Miss Lida Dicks, toilet mats.

Miss Annie B. Cashwell, homespun quilt.

Miss Janie Kyle, handsome pillow shams.

Miss Sarah Campbell, home-made knit socks.

Mrs. J. K. Kyle, tatting necklace.

Miss Hattie Starr, embroidered skirt.

Miss Mary Lillie Taylor, tatting work (very handsome).

Miss Ida Sutton, buffet scarf.

Mrs. H. C. Dodd, pillow shams.

Miss Loula Steel, mats and tidies.

Miss Jennie Steel, crocheted fascinator.

Miss Carrie Moore, Goldsboro, beautiful embroidered pin-cushion.

Mrs. R. C. Freeman, Goldsboro, embroidered sofa pillow, splendid specimen feather-edge lace, and 14 other very attractive fancy-work articles.

Miss Mary Davis, very skillfully made rug.

Mrs. Geo. Rosenthal, bureau scarf in etching (a beautiful piece of work).

Miss M. A. B. Carver knitted socks (very meritorious),

Mrs. S. J. Solms; hand-made crib quilt.

Miss Mary McKenzie, knit quilt (a very fine piece of work),

Miss Myra Tillinghast, only 8 years old, very meritorious specimen of plain sewing.

DECORATIVE ART.

A tapestry painting by Miss Maggie Pemberton, to the left of the entrance to Floral Hall, attracted universal attention and admiration, "Mignon," a graceful, lissome figure, with all the inviting charms of young maidenhood, is descending the stairway, and our fair, gifted young artist has been very happy in catching the expression of face and preserving the unstudied pose of the figure. Tapestry painting is a very pleasing feminine accomplishment, and in the contribution above described Miss Pemberton has made a very pleasing display of her talent.

Miss Alice Woodward, handsome decorated paper head.

Mrs. S. J. Solms, beautiful fancy work in baskets woven of splinters set off with ribbon. These are attractive little ornaments, and it is designed to have them on sale at the Ladies' Industrial Exchange.

Miss Louise Carver, a very praiseworthy exhibit of twenty-five articles in painting and other decorative art.

Miss E. C. Smith, flower panel.

Miss Emma Coble, handsome crayon.

Miss Maggie Pemberton, flowers in pastelle.

Miss Jennie Fisher, only twelve years of age, very creditable oil painting.

Miss Ella Spencer, a crayon portrait of her mother, Mrs. E. G. Spencer, taken from photograph. This was decidedly one one of the handsomest pieces of work in the hall.

The principal attraction in the central building was the display of chrysanthemums by Mrs. S. J. Solms—artistic and tasteful in all its groupings and details, from the lettering, which commenced with device of white dove with extended wings, made up of petals of chrysanthemums. Mrs. Solms has devoted much time and study to the cultivation of these flowers, and has been repaid by remarkable results.

The most beautiful single specimens of the chrysanthemums were exhibited by Mrs. R. M. Nimocks.

The art exhibit of the Siler City High School was excellent, the crayon work being exceptionally fine.

LIVE STOCK.

Jack Gaster, Cashmere goats; Wiley Godwin, Jersey bull and heifer; Holt & Homewood (Alamance county), white Chester boar and herd of Devon cattle; C. L. Campbell, Jersey heifer; F. S. Atkins, fine display cattle; G. T. Cade, hogs; Wade Saunders, Jersey heifer; J. A. Nicholson, Jersey bull; J. E. Lambeth black stallion; N. Ingram, herd fine cattle; W. B. Draughon, fine single mule; E. S. Saunders, very excellent brood mare; T. R. Bullard, Poland China pigs (best display the reporter saw); C. L. Campbell, fine Jersey heifer; Geo. P. McNeill, herd Jersey cattle (in keep and condition a very creditable exhibit); D. N. McLean, colt, 16 months old, (very handsome); W. M. Walker, bay colt, (handsomest in the exhibition, in reporter's opinion); W. H. Owen, fine colt, 2 years old; W. H. Downing, very good Essex boar; A. Breeden, Bennettsville, S. C., match horses; W. Doug. Smith, lot fine hogs; A. L. Butler, 10 months' handsome colt; J. A. McPherson, beautiful 3 years colt; Maj. J. B. Broadfoot, very fine Jersey cow; D. N. McLean, native cow, (good); C. B. Hester, Kernersville, fine buggy horse.

For the pleasures of the visitors attending the fair we were indebted to the unwearied efforts of Jno. Underwood to make both the German and ball perfectly successful. Both entertainments were exceedingly pleasant; and, among those participating the OBSERVER reporter could only find space to make notes of the FAIR BALL.

The floor of the opera house has perhaps never held a more brilliant assemblage than that which thronged it on last Thursday and Friday nights after the performances.

The german on Thursday night was most efficiently led by Mr. C. L. Campbell, ably assisted by Messrs. Douglass Haigh, of this city, Geo. B. McLeod, of Lumberton and Owen F. Love, of Wilmington. Dancing was continued until a late hour and there was an evident expression of regret upon many a charming countenance (whose owner seemed tireless in her dainty, satin-shod feet) when, in obedience to a signal from the leader, Miller's orchestra changed from the exhilarating notes of "McGinty" to the sad, remorseful strains of "Home, sweet home." A stampede of black coats to secure at least a part of this last and loveliest waltz with the girl of his heart, and the Fair German—in anticipation of which charming eyes have brightened and tender hearts have fluttered—is over.

On Friday night the attendance was probably even larger than upon the night previous and the dancers seemed as tireless. Below we endeavor to describe some of the costumes of the young ladies present.

Miss Minnie Bryan, white china silk, gold embroidery; old gold and diamond jewelry.

CHIEF MARSHAL THOMSON CANED.

Just before the dance commenced Mr. Jno. Underwood had the couples arranged in the hall to the music of the band; and, in behalf of the assistant marshals, Mr. J. H. Myrover made a few remarks in presentation of a cane to Mr. Geo. A. Tomson, Chief Marshal of the Fair. Mr. Tomson, in reply, said:

"Pardon me, ladies,—you who selected me my assistant marshals are equal sharers in this honor, wholy unmerited by myself. That you may comprehend me fully I read you my circular letter inviting the marshals. When appointed Chief Marshal I called on our young ladies to select me my assistant marshals. On the list handed in I find your name. So some fair one holds you in remembrance. For the pleasure of you two, and our glory, I trust you may find it convenient and agreeable to attend in that capacity. Of the 127 invited I received a responsive reply; and the absent ones, expressions of deepest regrets and anxious solicitation for the fair one to be known. In response to this appeal I became the recipient of this token of respect and esteem. Now gentlemen, you who have responded in person, the companions of my Fair days—have exhibited your ever willingness to come at fair woman's call, and your unflaging devotion characterizes you Fair Marshals; trusted and tried marshals for our fair ones. Fair or foul weather, your decisive and prompt biding my commands have won my affections. And this overt act brings me before you with an inadequate expression of thanks. But my heart is full of gratitude, enshrining the names of each one of you, ever to be cherished and claimed, my marshal friends."

A Sad Accident.

A few days ago a certain gentleman from aeross the Cape Fear, after having attended to all his business in the city and bought what goods he wanted, was driving home in a road-cart and taking it very leisurely, when his horse began to behave in a very restless manner and finally ran away, and it was some time before he could get control of him again. When, at last he did, and the horse became quiet, what was the surprise and horror of the gentleman, when he saw that all of his bundles were gone, and though he turned his horse's head and examined every particle of the road he had gone over he could find no sign of them. Now they were articles that he needed very much and had to have at once, as most of them were for his neighbors, so he came on to town and stopped at the Racket Store where he duplicated his memorandum at a discount of 20 per cent. on what the first lot cost him elsewhere. There is a moral to this.

Always buy your goods at THE RACKET STORE if you want bargains.

TIME.

Father Time is sweeping onward,
Scythe and hour-glass in hand;
Nothing can obstruct his pathway,
Nothing can his force withstand.
Now he blurs the cheek of beauty,
Now he renders weak the strong—
And he cuts down all before him,
As he swiftly glides along.

And he seems a grim old tyrant,
Stern-browed, merciless and cold;
Shaking mildew from his pinions,
Down on things of human mold.
Making every pleasure short-lived,
Touching love with his alloy;
Blasting with his sour visage
Every bud of human joy.

Yet, methinks, if thoughtless mortals
Would but read his visage right,
They would come to the conclusion
That he is not ruled by spite.
True, he sides with Death at present,
But he loves him none the more;
And in the far-distant future,
He will be the Death's conqueror.

Then give time the praise that's due him—
He his mission must fulfil,
And he'll use you very gently
If you do not treat him ill.
If you're free from dissipation,
And with vice no dealings have,
He will give you health and comfort
From the cradle to the grave.
—Francis T. Smith, in N. Y. Weekly.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Don't your well need cleaning?

Choose a cool day for picking apples.

Keep right on cultivating the strawberry patch.

Fight weeds, briers, etc., until they cease growing.

Now is a good time to make mutton as well as pork.

Put implements under cover as soon as done using them.

For permanent pasture, timothy does not do well alone.

The best egg-maker is good food. Feed the hen no other.

The same fence should not enclose a young orchard and cattle.

Get your ground ready for those trees you mean to set out this fall.

Save seed from any novelties that have proved satisfactory with you.

Harvest the onions as soon as ripe. When dry, store in a cool, dry place.

Black cap raspberries do better set out in the spring. Put others out this fall.

Put no "wind falls" in the barrels of No. 1 apples. It will pay in the long run.

Stop cultivating the grape vines. The wood must be given a chance to harden.

If there is marsh hay near you get some in readiness for covering the strawberries.

Currant and gooseberry cuttings will do better set out now than to wait till spring. Try it and see.

Begin your intense farming this fall by burning all the weeds about the place before they shell their seeds.

If you can put out some grape vines this fall do not wait till spring; you may be crowded with work then.

You need not wait till the frost drops the leaves from currant and gooseberry bushes before making cuttings.

Where are the mower and horserake? Better have them housed to-day. They will be of better value next season if they are.

While the corn is curing in the shock is a good time to get out the manure that has been accumulating during the summer,

By the way, do you make your wife an equal partner in the farm plans? She may be the "better half" of the firm if you will.

Every farmer should look over his farm often and examine his fences so that his stock will not destroy his crops or be found in his neighbor's lot.

When a man wants an idea, he scratches his head. When a farmer wants a crop he scratches his land, and the harder he scratches the better the crop.

Don't let any green tomatoes go to waste. Apples are scarce and green tomatoes make excellent pies. They are good friends—are good several ways. Save them.

Very often the surplus product of a farm can not be more profitably invested than by putting into under-drains, till the thorough drainage of the cultivated land be accomplished.

Where thorough and clean culture has been practiced one can see how the crops lay hold of the fertilizers and are correspondingly large. It pays to be energetic in fighting the weeds.

The size of the tile should be in proportion to the length of the drain and the amount of fall in the ditch. But the flooding of a drain tile depends somewhat on the depth to which it is sunk.

A correspondent of the Orange Judd Farmer complains that on his farm manure has been a detriment rather than a help to his crops. The number of farmers that have this experience is very small.

Flax seed that has been exposed in the field to the sun's rays until it is dry to brittleness still holds a latent moisture, which will develop when the seed is confined in a mass, and will result in heat and decomposition.

A farmer should take care to keep easy and safe ways of ingress and egress to his cultivated fields. More wagons are broken down by going through deep furrows or over ridges than by twice the travel on smooth highways.

It is time that western farmers were taking warning from the experience of their eastern brethren. When they are under the necessity of buying fertilizers to keep up the fertility of their lands they will sing a more doleful song than they do now.

Peaches.

W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.]

The day is not far distant when the central belt of North Carolina will be the greatest peach-growing section of the Atlantic coast. So far, we have no yellows in Virginia or North Carolina. This disease is fast destroying the orchards of Delaware and Maryland, and the peach supply must soon come from elsewhere. While the whole middle section of North Carolina will produce peaches to perfection, I am inclined to think that the high rolling sandy pine land between the Yadkin and Cape Fear Rivers, through which the Raleigh & Augusta Railroad runs, is destined to be the great peach district. Planters should never plant a peach orchard in a low bottom or on the east or south slope of a hill, but select the highest and coldest exposure possible, otherwise the tree will bloom too soon and be caught by frosts.

☞ If a box six feet deep were filled with sea water and allowed to evaporate under the sun, there would be two inches of salt on the bottom. Taking the average depth of the ocean to be three miles, there would be a layer of pure salt 230 feet thick on the bed of the Atlantic.
